Dr. Samarany

Reason for Consultation

Unstable angina

Chief Complaint

chest ptressure while at work, is a dr, works at CIM, has mild pressure now, asa 324mg, did not want ntg

History of Present Illness

PCP - Abraham Chen

Dr. Hanna is a very pleasant 75 year old gentleman who presents with 5 days of chest pain. He describes a 6/10 chest pressure substernally located with radiation to his neck with associated SOB but no associated palpitations, diaphoresis or nausea. No alleviating or aggravating factors. The episode is on going. The episode started when he was at rest.

He had a 2D echo which revealed EF of 65-70% with mildly dilated aortic root with 4.2 cm and trace AI. He had a lexiscan stress test which revealed no reversible defects.

On 12/2/21 at 1016 PM he was sitting down and watching TV and stood up and felt dizzy. He had a syncope episode. He hit his head and required to get stitches at the urgent care for SARH. He does not recall the events afterwards. He has never had syncope episode before. He checked his own blood pressure and was found to have SBP in the 170's. He has been taking his atenolol on a daily basis.

1/18/22: He had an event monitor which revealed no PAC's, no PVC's and no significant arrhythmias

He had a LHC which revealed 70% tandem lesions in the proximal to mid LAD S/P successful 3.0 x 28 mm Boston Scientific Synergy Drug Eluting Stent implantation and a 70% mid LAD stenosis S/P successful 2.75 x 24 mm Boston Scientific Synergy Drug Eluting Stent to mid LAD and 70% mid to distal RCA stenosis S/P successful 3.0 x 12 mm Boston Scientific Synergy Drug Eluting Stent implantation.

Currently he still feels stressed at work. He denies any CP, SOB, palpitations or LE edema. He denies any wrist complaints.

3/9/22: He is having chest discomfort that he believes is due to GERD and stress. He went back to work earlier and feels even more stress at this time. He is feeling like he is going to choke in his throat. The chest pain he describes is different compared to prior to his PCI. We will give him protonix to see if any improvement in his symptoms.

7/20/22: He currently presents with 1 day of chest pain. He describes a 9/10 chest pressure substernally located with radiation to right shoulder and right arm with associated SOB and nausea but no associated palpitations or dipahoresis. No alleviating

History of Present Illness

76-year-old male who works as a Chief of Staff and Chief psychiatrist at Chino prison presented with new episode of chest pressure in the middle of the chest at rest recurrent with associated difficulty to breathe similar to previously with history of recent coronary angiogram in December 2021 with PCI/stenting x2 in mid LAD and x1 in RCA with a previous negative nuclear cardiac imaging. He recently seen his primary cardiologist in March with intermittent chest pain deemed to be related to acid reflux with initiation of Protonix with no significant improvement of symptoms. Currently initial lab work shows negative troponin x1 and clear x-ray. Patient is compliant with his dual antiplatelet therapy as he stated. To note patient states significant work stress.

Document Name: Cardiac Cath Procedures
Result Status: Auth (Verified)
Performed By: Chan D.O.,Larry (7/20/2022 08:55 PDT)
Authenticated By: Chan D.O.,Larry (7/20/2022 08:55 PDT)

DATE OF PROCEDURE: 07/20/22

PRIMARY OPERATOR: Larry Chan.

PROCEDURES PERFORMED:

1. Left heart catheterization.
2. Selective left coronary angiography.
3. Selective right coronary angiography.
4. Successful 2.75 x 28 mm Boston Scientific Synergy Drug Eluting Stent to mid LAD.
5. Successful TR band placement over right radial artery.
6. Interpretation of data.
7. Ultrasound guidance of right radial access.
8. Conscious sedation time: 39 minutes.

INDICATION FOR PROCEDURE: The patient is a 76-year-old gentleman who presented with chest pain concerning for unstable angina.

PROCEDURE NOTE: The patient was brought to the cardiac laboratory under usual fashion manner. The risks, benefits, and alternatives were discussed with the patient who agreed to proceed with left heart cath. Timeout was completed prior to initiation of the procedure. 3 mL of 1% Xylocaine was infused in the right wrist for local anesthetic. Then access was obtained in the right radial artery with ultrasound guidance without any complications. Then, a 6-French slender short sheath was inserted without any complications. A 5-French JR4 was then inserted in the left ventricle. The left ventricular pressure was obtained and then pullback across the aortic valve was also recorded. Then the catheter was manipulated to the right coronary artery where selective right coronary angiography was then performed and it was exchanged out for a 6-French EBU 3.5 guide catheter which was used to engage the left main, where selective left coronary angiography was then performed.

After detail review of the diagnostic images, it was felt warranted to intervene on the mid LAD as this was felt to be the culprit lesion. IV heparin was given for anticoagulation. Then a BMW wire was inserted and manipulated and parked in distal LAD. Then a 2.75 x 28 mm Boston Scientific Synergy drug eluting stent was positioned with multiple views and angulations and deployed at 11 atmospheres for 30 seconds. Then using the stent delivery balloon, it was post-dilated at 13 atmospheres for 20 seconds. Post injection revealed 0% residual stenosis with TIMI III flow down distal portion of the vessel. Then all wires were removed and post injection revealed no signs of complications including dissection, perforations or another issues.

Then all wires and catheters were removed and then a TR band was deployed over the right radial artery without any complications. Hemostasis was achieved in the cath lab. The patient tolerated the procedure very well and was hemodynamically stable throughout the course of the procedure. The patient will be transferred to tele for further monitoring and discharged home today.

Cardiac Catheterization

FINDINGS:

- 1. The left ventricular end diastolic pressure is noted to be at 9 mmHg. There is no significant gradient upon pullback across the aortic valve.
2. The left main is a large caliber vessel which bifurcates into left anterior descending, left circumflex vessels, is angiographically free of significant disease.
3. Left anterior descending artery is a large caliber vessel with 2 moderate caliber diagonal branches. There is a widely patent stent in the proximal and mid to distal area with a hazy 70% lesion just prior to the distal stent.
4. The left circumflex is a large caliber vessel with 2 moderate caliber OM branches, which is angiographically free of significant disease.
5. Right coronary artery is a large caliber vessel which bifurcates into the posterior LV branch and posterior descending artery. It is a right dominant system. It is angiographically free of significant disease.

COMPLICATIONS IN LAB: None.

TOTAL FLUOROSCOPY TIME: 3.9 minutes.

TOTAL CONTRAST USED: 40 mL.

ASSESSMENT:

- 1. Abnormal stress test.
2. 70% hazy mid LAD stenosis S/P successful 2.75 x 28 mm Boston Scientific Synergy Drug Eluting Stent implantation.

PLAN: Risk factor modification. This patient has been loaded with ASA and Brilinta and recommended DAPT for minimum of 1 years. The patient will be reassessed at that time. The patient will be monitored in tele.

Interpretive Data

^1: Troponin I
Troponin I (TnI) exists in 3 distinct isoforms: cardiac muscle, slow-twitch skeletal muscle, and fast-twitch skeletal muscle.1 Each isoform is encoded by a distinct gene, each with a unique amino acid sequence, leading to a 40% dissimilarity among isoforms.1-4

Cardiac troponin I (cTnI) is an inhibitory protein of the troponin-tropomyosin complex. cTnI is the only TnI isotype present in the myocardium and is not expressed during any developmental stage in skeletal muscle.2,5,6 cTnI has a molecular weight of 24,000 daltons.7

The cardiac form of TnI is further unique in that it has 31 additional amino acid residues on its N-terminal, not present in the skeletal forms, which allows for specific monoclonal antibody development.7 The cardiac specificity of this isoform improves the accuracy of detection of cardiac muscle ischemia in patients with acute or chronic skeletal muscle injury and possible concomitant myocardial injury, and is the basis for its selection as a cardiac marker in the diagnosis of AMI.1,3-5,7,8

The Global MI Task Force's third version of the universal definition of myocardial infarction defined AMI as evidence of myocardial necrosis in a clinical setting consistent with acute myocardial ischemia.9 Under these circumstances, the following criterion meets the diagnosis of AMI:

Detection of a rise and/or fall of cardiac biomarker values (preferably cardiac troponin) with at least 1 value above the 99th percentile upper reference limit (URL) and with at least 1 of the following conditions:

- Symptoms of ischemia.
- New or presumed new significant ST-segment-T wave (ST-T) changes or new left bundle branch block (LBB).
- Development of pathological Q waves in the electrocardiogram (EKG).
- Imaging evidence of new loss of viable myocardium, or new regional wall motion abnormality.
- Identification of an intracoronary thrombus by angiography or autopsy.

^2: GFR, Estimated eGFR result reported in ml/min/1.73m<sup>3</sup>. If patient is African-American, please multiply the result by 1.210. Stable creatinine presumed. Ignore eGFR in dialysis patients. Interpret with caution in patients with acute renal failure.
